Q321 results

Entering its next growth phase

CLIQ Digital's Q3 results were strong, with gross revenue of €40m (+35% y-o-y, +21% q-o-q) and EBITDA of €7.4m (+63% y-o-y), growing in line with management's raised FY21 guidance announcement. On a nine-month basis, gross revenue was €103m (+34% y-o-y) and EBITDA was €19m (+75% y-o-y), reflecting management's increased marketing spend, focus on direct media buying and its enriched content offering. We have raised our profit and margin forecasts for FY21 and FY22, reflecting the company's higher-margin strategy of direct media buying over affiliate marketing. During the quarter, CLIQ has signed licensing deals adding over 360 movies and 500 cloud games to its all-in-one platform.

Indicators highlight positive momentum

Marketing spend, a key performance driver, was up 41% y-o-y to €13.8m in Q321 and up 33% to €34.8m for 9M21. Direct media buying, rather than affiliate marketing, now contributes most to marketing spend at 76% (9M20: 55%), reducing CLIQ's fees to affiliate partners. For 9M21, EBITDA margin expanded by 4pp to 18%. CLIQ's customer base value, calculated by multiplying the number of members on its platform by remaining lifetime value, grew by 25% q-o-q to €50m in Q321, indicating continuing positive momentum. We have raised our FY21 and FY22 revenue forecasts by 3.3% and our EBITDA forecasts for both years by 27.3% and 22.6% respectively.

Continuing to enrich all-in-one platform

So far in 2021, management has signed several licensing deals, focusing on new categories and demographics, which it sees as key for both customer retention and growth. During Q321, CLIQ agreed a two-year deal with Lighthouse Home Entertainment, for 360 high-quality German, European and International films, as well as a five-year deal with Blacknut's Cloud Gaming Service, integrating 500 games titles to its platform from 2022 onwards. Cloud-gaming is management's current primary focus, underpinned by Grand View Research's forecasts for global sales growth of 48% y-o-y until 2027, equating to a total market size of $7.2bn.

Valuation: Share price at record highs in 2021

CLIQ's share price has performed very strongly over the last two years. Nevertheless, based on the peer group average EV/sales multiple over FY21 and FY22, CLIQ currently trades at a 65% discount, which we believe should narrow as management continues to deliver superior growth. Parity would equate to a share price of €75.0.

Strong growth in 2021 underpins our raised forecasts

CLIQ Digital has continued to grow revenue and profits q-o-q in 2021 as it increases marketing spend and rolls out its direct media buying strategy in Europe, following its successful implementation in its US operations in 2020. Growth has also been fostered by the enriched content offering on its all-in-one platform, particularly in family, gaming and sport, while maintaining its attractive pricing structure. Highlights include:

- From 1 September 2021, members will be able to stream over 360 high-quality films following its newly agreed licensing deal with Lighthouse Home Entertainment, which also includes two new releases every month.
- From early 2022, members be able to access over 500 high-quality cloud games following its licensing deal for Blacknut's multiscreen Cloud Gaming Service.
- In July 2021, CLIQ announced that it had secured the exclusive live broadcasting rights in Germany, Austria and Switzerland for the Italian Serie B football championship.

Credit card remained the predominant and fastest-growing payment means during the period, amounting to 69% of gross revenue (H121: 67%). Customers' adoption of credit cards for mobile purchases benefits gross margin as it reduces the costs of sales attributable to third parties, such as fees charged by a mobile carrier.

We have raised our FY21 revenue forecast by 5.6% to €149.9m, in line with current consensus and management's guidance for the year. We have increased our FY22 revenue forecast 10.1% as we expect momentum to continue next year, supported by further content additions and planned entry into new markets, which management intends to start in Q122.

Our updated EBITDA forecasts imply higher margin expansion in FY21 than previously expected, reflecting the continued roll-out of its direct media buying strategy in Europe. Direct media buying teams are a largely fixed cost, reducing cost pressures as the company scales. However, we anticipate that costs relating to improving its content offering will affect profitability. Additionally, we believe the greatest impact to margins from its direct media buying strategy will be in FY21 due its roll-out in Europe for the first time. We have therefore kept our FY22 EBITDA margin broadly flat at 18%.

Our EPS and dividend forecasts have risen in line with EBITDA, where our prior expectations for EPS reflected the immediate uplift from CLIQ's acquisition of its minority interest in Hype Ventures.

Finally, we now believe CLIQ will be in a net cash position at the end of the year, reflecting its net cash position of €0.7m at the end of Q321 and our expectations for profit growth for the rest of FY21. We believe its FY22 net cash position can reach €13.1m, up from our prior expectation of €4.7m, due to its current cash generation, our expectation of improving margins and our €5.8m uplift to our FY21 net cash position.

Valuation

CLIQ's share price has grown over 750% since the start of 2020 and reached a record high of €38.5 in April, supported by heightened demand for mobile entertainment during the pandemic, CLIQ's enriched all-in-one platform and management delivering on its direct media buying strategy. Despite this, and its relatively high sales growth forecast compared to peers, CLIQ remains at a significant discount to other global entertainment and customer acquisition peers on consensus EV/sales, EV/EBIT and P/E, across FY21 and FY22.

As consensus forecasts indicate that the majority of CLIQ's peer group will still be loss making at the EBIT level, we believe the most suitable valuation metric is EV/sales. Were CLIQ's shares to be priced at parity to peers at an average across FY21 and FY22, the implied share price would be €75.0. This represents a 65% discount to the current price of €26.3, which we believe will narrow as the company grows and as management continues to add content to its platform, as well as continuing to roll-out its direct media buying strategy.
